Managing risk

When you are either running or setting up a glamping site it is likely that you will be thinking welcome hampers, booking systems and setting your rental rates. You might be wondering whether to add a log burner for those winter bookings, or maybe you are weighing up the pros and cons of accepting dogs, installing a hot tub or what sort of seating you need for around the fire pit. These are all exciting and important things to be thinking about!

However, arguably more important, but less exciting, (and certainly often overlooked in the initial stages of setting up your glamping site) are the various rules and regulations that we need to adhere to as glamping site owners. Whilst some laws might be obvious, others are less so. Either way, we can't escape the amount of legislation that we need to abide by to keep our guests safe.

The Glamping Association's aim is to take the confusion out of risk management, by guiding you down a structured pathway helping you make your glamping site a great place for your guest to visit in the knowledge you are taking their safety seriously.

The information in various forms contained on our website is aimed to provide some guidance and useful resources for glamping site owners who are researching legislation that relates to running and owning a glamping site. However, it is not an exhaustive list, and rules and regulations are frequently updated. In addition, we are in no way lawyers or accountants so please treat this information as a starting point to conduct your own research rather than professional advice. If you are in any doubt you should consult an expert.

Finally, if you are just starting out don't be overwhelmed by the seemingly large amount of regulations. Most of them are common sense and are there to protect you and your guests and demonstrates that your glamping business take the safety of users seriously.

To help you manage risks in your glamping business we have put a number of documents on our website for you to purchase, should you wish.

To make full use of the documents available you will need Microsoft excel and Microsoft word alternatively PDF versions are also available.

To get started print all 3 pages of this document, then click here to join The Glamping Association.

1 From the list on page 3, choose the categories that apply to you. Each category covers different areas of risk. This will vary from one glamping business to another.

2 Each category heading will have a document named "Overview". Once you are a member and logged in you will find these documents in your dashboard on our website (a sample of a typical document is here on the right).

3 Use the Overview document to identify further documents and action/s required to help you complete each category heading.

4 To make things easy, each document has its own unique number starting with the letters QC followed by various numbers and letters, for example QC60-V1-SL1.

5 Simply work through the categories that apply to you (new supporting documentation will be added shortly).

The categories listed on the contents page are some of the key considerations for glamping sites.
